Christmas in May in Marion

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

There's no snow on the ground, but there is a Christmas tree in it. Marion's new town Christmas tree arrived and was planted on Friday. The twenty foot Concolor Fir, from upstate New York, has a root ball nine feet by three feet. The tree is a type of white fir with light colored bark and silver blue-green needles.

Members of the town Tree Committee, along with the Department of Public Works, used a crane to move the massive tree off a flat bed trailer, over to the hole, and into place at its home in Bicentennial Park in Marion.

Passers-by stopped to watch the effort and marvel at the beauty of the tree. Seeing the commotion, several Town House employees came out to snap photos.

"It's tradition in France to throw a coin into the hole so the tree will flourish," Danielle Francis said. Francis provided coins to several of the onlookers resulting in a total of 78 cents under the root ball of the new tree.

DPW employees who helped maneuver it joked that an upstate New York squirrel or bird might fly out from the branches at any moment. When asked about the age of the tree, Steve Gonsalves of the Marion Tree Committee said it was "a teenager who was moving into town." The life span of the tree could be up to 100 years.

According to Gonsalves, the tree was hand dug and the root ball was drum laced, meaning it was covered with hay, carefully wrapped in burlap, and fitted with a wood cap over the base.

The old Christmas tree was a Colorado Blue Spruce, which died over time. The Tree Committee raised the $1,400 cost of the new tree, along with the $700 transportation fee to bring it to Marion.

"It's a nice-looking tree, and we'll make sure it is properly cared for," DPW foreman Gilly Leonardo said.

Town Meeting Is Everyone's Job

This Mattapoisett Life

By Marilou Newell

Let me start by confessing that I am not a "townie." Many of you reading this article might snicker and say to yourself "Well, I am," or "Same for me." Mattapoisett, like nearly every other location you could think of in the U. S. of A., has become a melting pot just like our great country.

On the Cover: Thirty-six fifth- and sixth-grade students from Rochester Memorial School's Drama Club, along with the help of six ORR Junior High students, performed Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" on Friday, May 3. The production was directed by Dannie Kleiman and featured costumes by Kate Tarleton. Photo by Felix Perez. Additional photos on page 54.

"This Mattapoisett Life" is the first in an occasional series I'll be sharing with you on stuff that strikes me as interesting, funny, or some how significant. Hitting on at least two of those three, let's look at our town government.

How I love America and Mattapoisett. I am not widely traveled (although I got around a bit, especially in the Seventies), but one thing I know for sure: Few other nations on our tiny planet are as special. I'm guessing you'd agree. And so I thought it might be interesting to explore one of the compelling aspects living in America bestows upon us: our democratic government.

When I first began writing for The Wanderer, I quickly learned that covering the local government meetings was not going to be easy. First and foremost, I was not familiar with and had never met most of the board and committee members. I was not familiar with the residents who attended hearings with these decision makers. I am not a townie. But even more glaring was my nearly total ignorance on how town government worked. Being no spring chicken, as it were, I decided it was about time to embrace being an adult and gain an understanding of town government's role in our everyday living.

Here goes. Buckle up your seat belt: There are curves ahead as we thunder through Town Hall. First and foremost, our Board of Selectmen establishes policies that fan out to every segment of the town, from the police and fire departments to the Board of Health, Water and Sewer, dog officer, Zoning Board of Appeals, Conservation Commission, schools, planning, cemeteries, and any other area that touches our lives on this side of the grass and otherwise here in Mattapoisett.

From our town's website we learn:

The Board of Selectmen is a three-member elected board that serves as the town's executive branch of government. The board is responsible for general policy oversight of all town functions with particular attention to the town's fiscal, managerial, and personnel direction. The Board's authority includes appointment of the town administrator, police chief and officers, fire chief, harbormaster, senior department heads, and many boards and committees. The Board of Selectmen also issues various licenses and permits.

We have a three-member executive board. The Board of Selectmen is currently served by: Jordan C. Collyer (chair), Paul A. Silva (clerk) and R. Tyler Macallister (vice chair). We the people hire these citizens by way of election to handle the business of operating our town.

Yet unlike other types of municipalities whose populations and geography require full-time oversight, our Selectmen work for us part-time.

The Town Administrator however, is hired by the Selectmen to work executively for the town, handling the town's day-to-day business needs. Selectmen will be residents of the town. The Administrator is an employee who may live in another community. Our Town Administrator is Michael Gagne. Gagne is the Chief Administration Officer. The Selectmen are the Chief Executive Officers.

The Town Administrator, as described on our town's website, provides general administration of the day-to-day affairs of the town and serves to forward the goals and objectives set by the Board of Selectmen. The Town Administrator works under the policy direction of the Board of Selectmen and serves as the town's chief operating officer, chief financial officer, personnel director and chief procurement officer. The Town Administrator's office is available to citizens to assist in dealing with any general business issues.

Gagne has the responsibilities of working closely with each and every department, board, commission, and committee in town. Throughout the year and leading up to Town Meeting, he is preparing along with department heads and all the other functional areas, the Warrant and articles therein.

The Annual Town Meeting takes place each spring, this year starting on May 13. It is during this wonderfully American process that voters in the town get to decide how their tax money will be spent. It is a consensus process.

Starting in January, Gagne meets regularly with the Finance Committee and all of the department heads and other town entities to begin crafting the articles for the warrant that will be presented to the voters during the annual Town Meeting.

Finance Committee meetings handle the painstaking process of preparing the warrant articles and balancing the budget. To that end, department heads are asked to attend these meetings to help craft their specific financial needs. The Capital Improvement Committee will also met with the Finance Committee and the Administrator for large-ticket items. Those items or needs will have a price tag of $10,000 or greater and an expected lifespan of at least five years. By April, the process is in the fine-tuning stages. The Annual Town meeting is the time for the voters to set the budget for the fiscal year.

Any other items that the voters need to decide upon will fall to Special Town Meetings and will not be covered at the Annual Town Meeting, which again, is primarily geared to setting the budget.

Voters can petition the Board of Selectmen to include articles in the warrant. Ten registered voters are required for this process.

"Democracy is not an armchair activity," Gagne told me, paraphrasing "Democracy is not a spectator sport" as said by Marian Wright Edelman, African-American lawyer and children's rights leader. Our democratic society's strength comes from our participation. It is a right, a privilege, and a responsibility we can and should all share in.

Attending Town Meeting might not be top on our hit parade of ways to spend a beautiful spring evening. But when it involves the ways our hard earned tax dollars will

Vocational Schools Team Up in Tri-Town

By Nick Walecka

Recently, some students at Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School have gotten to work, and the results should be something that they and other residents of Rochester should be proud of for a long time to come.

Led by their teachers, groups of juniors and seniors from the school have traveled each day (weather permitting) to Gifford Field in Rochester to construct the new Snack Shack, which will be utilized at Old Rochester Little League games. Stu Norton, who is the teacher for the House and Mill Carpentry group at Old Colony, said that they started construction in November, and that they are made up of students from his department and two others – Electrical and CAD – as well as students from the New Bedford Regional Vocational Technical High School's Plumbing Department.

"It's a win-win," Norton said. "It saves the school money, and it saves the community the cost of building a building like this. And it's real work."

The new building, which includes a handicap-accessible bathroom, a trophy/bulletin board case, and a serving window, replaces an older structure that previously existed on the property. In the end, the building will have been constructed entirely by the students and their teachers.

"It's good for the community," said Brandon Sousa, who is part of the group of juniors with the House and Mill Carpentry group. The students in each department alternate weekly with the other group of seniors who also work on the project. The grades alternate between shop and academics, with juniors and seniors on opposite schedules, so every week, it's a different crew on site, but Norton said that it has been good to see all of the different departments working together on the project.

"It's just great that kids understand the value of that in the community," Norton said.

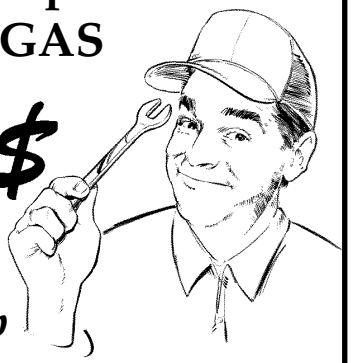

Norton said that the Old Rochester Little League provided the funds for the new building with proceeds earned from the old snack shack. He added that the new shack is quite a bit larger than the old one was, and that they hope to have it completed by the end of the school year. During a recent visit, the carpentry group was adding shingles to the exterior of the shack, with more interior work remaining.

Norton said that "all aspects, from the windows and the doors to the wiring and the plumbing and the design," were done by the students. "It's better than building a fake wall and throwing it all away." He added that he expects the concrete on the exterior to be poured in about two weeks.

A Working Vacation in Trinidad

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Eighteen Old Rochester Regional High School students and one Tabor Academy student, along with their fathers, spent April vacation working at an orphanage on the island of Trinidad. The students ranged from freshmen to seniors.

Trinidad Tobago is the official name of the country and consists of two southern Caribbean islands. They are located off the coast of Venezuela and south of Grenada.

"It was a very eye-opening experience," said Ben Mattson, who went with his father, Wayne. "The kids were very excited to have us visit. They were so grateful and we could see what a big deal our work was to them. It was amazing to see how much we accomplished in such a short time."

The group provided labor, materials, and good spirits to help paint the sleeping areas for the 35 children who live at the Christ Child Convalescence Home. The orphans range in age from five months to 14 years old.

The girls' sleeping area was painted pink, and the boys' area blue. The group also replaced the drop ceiling tiles, which were falling down and in disrepair. Cubbyholes were built for each child to store clothing and toiletries in the male and female changing areas.

The trip was organized by Erik Dyson of Mattapoisett. Dyson and his wife, Deb, worked for Habitat for Humanity in El Salvador and Costa Rica for three years managing housing projects.

"Groups from high schools, colleges, and churches would come down and help us, Dyson said, "and we were grateful for it."

Dyson works for an international company and oversees the Caribbean and Latin America region.

"Our company donated a computer lab to the orphanage, and I met Anunciata, who runs the place," he said. "She told me that she had so many projects and ideas, but no money. I asked if she would host us if we brought a group to help and it all fell into place."

Hosting means that the orphanage would supply the group with daily lunch, water, and a place to sleep.

The group was formed by friends telling friends and neighbors about it. Some in the group knew each other, but others were strangers.

"We didn't all know each other before the trip," said Jane Kassabian, who went with her father, Jay, and brother, Michael (an ORR student who reports on sports for The Wanderer). The trio, from Mattapoisett, had never experienced a different culture. "The kids spoke English, with a strong accent, and we played with them when they returned from school," Kassabian said.

"It was cool having a father, daughter, and son trip. I shared a tiny, crowded room, with bunks on top of bunks, but it was really great," she said. Another benefit to giving back is that it brought the families as well as the students closer to one another. "We knew each other from school but now we are friends, definitely," Kassabian said.

After the project was completed, the group visited a hummingbird sanctuary, where 14 different varieties of the bird live. Another trip included a visit to a beach, at night, where the group saw leatherback turtles, which were eight feet long and weighed up to 1,000 pounds.

"Everybody got along, we worked as a team, and we have great memories of our school vacation week," Dyson said.

ambulance service from Basic Life Support to Advanced Life Support, as well as the introduction of several new articles, all of which will be voted on at the Special Town Meeting on May 20.

Rochester Fire Chief Scott Weigel and Lieutenant Kevin Richards, who is also the EMS Coordinator with the town, presented their proposal to the public and the Board, hoping to gain approval for the change at Town Meeting, which takes place at Rochester Memorial School at 7pm.

"Right now we're a Basic Life Support service, meaning our EMTs are only trained to a certain level," Weigel said. "ALS has twice as much training as they're at now."

Weigel said that as of now, Rochester's total ambulance calls are increasing annually, and that EMS relies on Freetown and Wareham to handle their ALS calls. Calls are determined to be ALS or BLS at the time of the emergency call by Rochester's dispatchers.

Weigel also said that they have already applied for and been approved for a $100,000 grant from SouthCoast Hospital Group to help fund the switch. The money would go toward two new ambulances and other equipment necessary to accommodate ALS.

"If it passes at Town Meeting, our goal is to get everything up and running by November 1," Weigel said.

Currently, Rochester is one of only a few municipalities in the state to remain as a BLS provider.

"It's a fruitful decision to make," Richards said, also adding that the town loses out on a lot of revenue when it loses its calls to other towns. Not only is it losing money; it puts members of the community at a higher risk, with inadequate service often being provided by the town due to insufficient characteristics of BLS.

Weigel said that they've budgeted for approximately $321,000 for fiscal year 2014 for the new system.

"I understand that it's all about money, by my concern is the safety of the people in this town," Weigel said.

In other news, the Board shed light on several articles that will be voted on regarding potential changes within the town.

Numerous notable changes to the fiscal status of the town are proposed, including the transfer of $75,000 from the RMS budget into a special education fund for any unexpected costs for FY14.

The town's operational budget for FY14 was also presented, which is $18,413,066, and another article proposes raises over the normal 2% for the Tree Warden and Highway Supervisor. The Board noted two very large storms from this past year that caused each of them to work countless hours of overtime, which they are not compensated for.

"To only pay the Tree Warden $661 [his current yearly salary] wouldn't be fair," said Town Administrator

FELINE DRINKING HABITS

My cat likes to drink from the faucet, the shower floor, and the saucer under my plants when I water them. She will only drink from her water bowl when I first fill it. Why?

Unless the cats verbal skills improve markedly we will probably never know for sure why she is picky about her water sources. My own opinion is that we are well meaning but don't do a great job offering cats water as clean as we give ourselves. (Dogs don't seem to care). Most cat water bowls are made of plastic which may hold odors more than glass or metal. Usually these bowls are rinsed out daily and refilled. Try giving your cat water in a glass bowl. Thoroughly wash the bowl with soap and water before refilling it and consider doing this a few times a day especially if you have more than one cat in the house. Would you share a water glass with a family member if they were always sticking their tounges in the glass and you only received fresh water once a day?

The Board also discussed the issue of the Cape Cod Regional Transit Authority's new commuter rail that is scheduled to run from Middleboro through Rochester and to Hyannis.

Officials said that the train will go through Rochester at about 59 miles per hour but will only go 30 miles per hour through most of the other towns.

LaCamera said that the major concerns that they have is at the crossing on County Road, which is surrounded by two S-curves on each side. Officials are worried that there isn't sufficient warning about the train tracks for crossing automobiles, and they are looking for some help from the state, which owns the rail.

"There's a lot of people very upset about it right now," LaCamera said. "We expressed our concerns to the DOT. There's no fencing – nothing. Somebody's going to get hurt. I really think it's important that we meet with [DOT officials] next week."

The Board also approved work to the roofs of two town buildings: the Police Station and the Council on Aging. The partial replacement to the roof at the Police Station has been approved for $24,750, and the complete replacement to the roof at the COA has been approved for $29,990.

hearing for what Town Administrator Paul Dawson called the "potential removal" of Sherman Briggs Jr. from the Conservation Commission after he admitted to a violation of Massachusetts General Law c. 268A, the conflict of interest law.

According to the Massachusetts Ethics Commission, Briggs has paid a $7,500 civil penalty after "voting as a ConCom member to issue an Order of Conditions authorizing Tabor Academy to install salt water tanks. Tabor then hired Briggs' business to perform the excavation work."

Dawson said that there has been "no letter of resignation at this point in time" from Briggs, who is also on the ballot for another term on the Planning Board, and Board of Selectmen Chair Stephen Cushing said that there should be a discussion of "due process and the next steps relevant to this." Selectman Jody Dickerson agreed, while Selectman John Henry recused himself from the matter.

At press time, the hearing will take place on May 20.

Elsewhere on the agenda, the Selectmen unanimously expressed a desire to step up efforts to institute a drug testing policy for town employees. Cushing said he was "scratching his head as to why we don't have one already, but how we get there is another question." Questions arose as to the mechanism and protocols for the testing, as well as how it would impact the hiring process for union personnel shielded by collective bargaining, all of which Dawson said he would explore.

Most notable among the other Tuesday evening action items was the Selectmen's approval of the municipal audit proposal from MLBCP, LLP. Dawson said the firm had been "very responsive and diligent," and that "no stone is ever left unturned, which is good, that's how you want it to be."

Dickerson, meanwhile, provided a report on the progress of Marion's Fourth of July Fireworks fundraising efforts. While he said he could not provide figures, he did say that he is "comfortable and confident that we can continue the tradition." The committee is still accepting donations.

During Dawson's report, Energy Management Committee member and Planning Board candidate Norm Hills was commended by the Selectmen for his participation in the mold remediation project at the Marion Town House. Dawson called Hills' contributions "invaluable," while

Henry, also on the May 17 ballot, said Hills has done a "wonderful job" helping to make the process "organized and efficient."

Henry had even kinder words for Marion resident and former Selectmen secretary Helene Craver, who served at the Town House for more than two decades and passed away on May 2.

"This is hard to talk about," said Henry during a moving tribute to Craver. "I'm sorry that she's gone. We're really going to miss her a lot. She was a treasure. She didn't shrink from expressing her opinions about things, and not just because she was opinionated. She wanted to make sure that we always thought things through, listened to opposing viewpoints, and understood that we weren't always right."

Henry continued.

"She was a good mother to her family, and motherhood is the highest calling of all callings."

Craver's Memorial Service will take place Saturday, May 11, 3:00 pm, at St. Gabriel's in Marion.

Warrant Signed, Sealed, Delivered

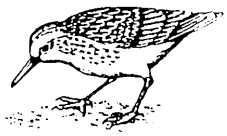

Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen

by Marilou Newell

Mattapoisett's Town Warrant was signed by the Board of Selectmen on Tuesday night and given to Town Clerk Barbara Sullivan, making it ready for Town Meeting. The warrant is now available in hardcopy at the clerk's office and is posted on the town's website. Also available to voters is a TV program that will air on community channels featuring Town Administrator Michael Gagne and Selectman Paul Silva explaining the financial health of Mattapoisett. It was noted that voters would be better prepared for participation at Town Meeting by watching the show prior to attending.

The night's agenda also included the signing of treasurer bonds for the Massachusetts Water Pollution Abatement Trust in the amount of $6,097,990 for the ongoing sewer work on Mattapoisett Neck. The voters had previously approved the improvement project during the 2010 Town Meeting.

In the good news category for this major project, Chair Jordan Collyer stated that incorrect cost estimates, which had threatened completion of the sewer project, have been resolved and that "nothing will roll back onto the town." The $44,000 error made by the engineering firm Tighe & Bond was mitigated to the Selectmen's satisfaction, "making the town whole," Collyer said. Gagne stated that the plan still includes paving work on West Hill Road, the last street on the Neck needing repair. Work is scheduled to begin May 13.

Also being considered for future presentation to the voters is the much-needed electrical improvements to the town's wharves. Harbormaster Horace Field presented the board with his exhaustive analysis and mapping of electrical conduits and other raceways that had been abandoned after Hurricane Bob. With this infrastructure suffering not only weather-related damage, it also isn't sufficient for summer's seasonal influx of users. Field explained that there are only 15 amps of power on the wharves, far less than necessary for boaters' needs when moored.

"These changes," Field said, "would bring these wharves up to the 20th century."

Gagne explained that during discussion with the Marine Advisory Board, the scope of work has been pegged at approximately $200,000. Projected revenues and current balances in the waterfront fund are not enough to cover all of the needed improvements. However, some work can be done for the upcoming season, while a comprehensive proposal can be prepared for the voters' consideration during the 2014 Town Meeting.

In other business: approval was granted to the Rochester Firefighter's Association to sponsor the annual Mattapoisett River Boat Race on May 27. The board granted them a common victuallers license to sell food at the finish line.

Teens will once again be able to meet and jam to tunes on the pier with the approval of the teen wharf dances beginning on June 27 and running every Thursday night from 7:30 – 10:30 until August 29. Hosting and chaperoning this scholarship fundraiser is the Mattapoisett Track Club.

Also approved was a fee increase from $2 to $5 per person for "walk-on" admittance to the town's beaches.

Allen Decker of the Buzzards Bay Coalition returned to have the Selectmen sign the deed restrictions on Northwoods, a 35-acre site on the Mattapoisett River. These restrictions were in line with those requested by the Conservation Commission and include an option for the town to use the site for drinking water wells in the future, as well as some parking for those recreating in the area.

Magauran Exits Amid Busy Time

Marion Planning Board

By Shawn Badgley

Tom Magauran's final meeting as a member of the Marion Planning Board Monday night was emblematic of his long tenure there, as a touchy subject from the past resurfaced, a looming policy battle approached, and a good deal of town business was done in between.

Chair Jay Ryder commended Magauran, whom he called his mentor, during his opening remarks. "He has provided so many memorable moments," Ryder said.

"Thank you for your years of service, albeit controversial. You've always been a voice of reason, and there's no one who I hold in higher regard in terms of knowing what's going on in Marion."

As it turns out, there's a lot.

The Planning Board finalized the language of its legally required recommendation on the polarizing Solar Bylaws, set for vote at the Town Meeting that begins May 13. After months of work sessions, board meetings, and public hearings – on a project that originated as a joint enterprise with the Energy Management Committee – the Planning Board decided against endorsing either Article 30 or 31, which would formalize the process for installing ground-mounted solar arrays in residential areas and clear the way for a Municipal Solar Overlay District, respectively.

Ryder said he believed that the Board should issue a rationale for its rejection of the bylaws, even if it's not obligatory. Vice Chair Pat McArdle went even further.

"I have a fear that [the voters] pass it as is, and we get nothing," she said, adding that the EMC "will do their song and dance … we need something a little more dramatic."

McArdle, an attorney, likened the Solar Bylaws showdown at Town Meeting to "two closing arguments in a case," while Member Ted North, the policies' most outspoken opponent, warned against "negotiating on Town Meeting floor." The Planning Board agreed that it had to present a strong but succinct rejection, while disabusing Marion voters of the notion that any members are anti-solar; rather, the language of the statement will read that they are against the Solar Bylaws "as drafted and presented in the Town Warrant." In addition, the Board will inform the electorate that it plans to craft its own bylaws.

"This version doesn't work," Magauran said. "There are substantial risks."

Ryder plans to present the Selectmen – who signed off on the Solar Bylaws – with the Planning Board's report this week.

In other news, Johnson Family Investments, led by Arnold Johnson (also chair of the Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals), faced its first public hearing in a bid to demolish the old Frigate Steak House and replace it with a produce market, bakery, and ice cream window. According to Johnson, the business would approximately double the footprint of the Frigate, include 26 parking spots, and sell fruits and vegetables from local farmers.

While several Planning Board members and abutters invoked the words "Cumberland Farms" in discussing potential traffic tangles, the response overall was positive, with several neighbors, including Carl Correia, lauding Johnson and his team for their outreach efforts.

The public hearing was continued to May 20, pending review of plans from Marion engineer Ken Motta.

Earlier in the meeting, Will Saltonstall of Saltonstall Architects presented plans for a small addition to Tabor Academy's athletic facilities as part of a public hearing. While there are technically only three residential abutters,

Head of School John Quirk directed a broader mailing to notify Marion residents, and the principals were rewarded with very little discussion on the project. Tabor plans to construct a practice area for its rowing team, which at times is unable to work out because of rough waters on Sippican Harbor.

Saltonstall said the structure would consist of a raised platform and two parallel pools, simulating as closely as possible the act of rowing. The practice area will serve only the existing Tabor community, accommodate no spectators (thus precluding a traffic increase), will register a 35'-by-78' footprint. The environmental assessment for the project has been waived.

The public hearing must have numbered among the smoother ones between the town and Tabor Academy during Magauran's time on the Planning Board.

"I've been honored to serve," said Magauran, who has declined to seek another term in the May 17 Marion election. "Any expectations about the position were quickly dashed. I've tried to do what's fair, tried to put myself in the place of the applicant and of the town."

The next Planning Board meeting is scheduled for May 20.

Board spent about an hour discussing the confluence of their responsibilities with bylaws and other boards and commissions.

Of particular note was SRPEDD. This stands for Southeastern Regional Planning & Economic Development District. The agency was developed to serve 27 cities and towns in the region for land use, transportation, economic and environmental planning. It serves over a half million people in 808 square miles.

John Mathieu shared with the other members that during his recent meetings with SRPEDD's Grant King precise detailed mapping of Mattapoisett is now available. From this Mathieu said they could overlay zoning maps and plans such as those being drawn up by the Open Space committee to better assess land use options. With all of this data, the lay of the land for Mattapoisett's planners becomes easier to see allowing better land use for master plans and future generations.

Of particular interest to the Planning Board are areas that could generate revenue for the town. Ron Merlo and Mathieu concurred that "Mattapoisett is built out." With very little in the way of parcels zoned for business, Mathieu wants the board to take a deeper dive into the current areas zoned as business districts. This, along with developing and updating bylaws, is sorely needed, it was pointed out. The current set of bylaws was last written thirteen years ago.

Mathieu suggested that the area from Fairhaven to Aucoot Road on Route 6 "should be re-zoned all business … maybe for cottage industries or light commercial … there is no space left for businesses." He added that "our zoning bylaws need to be addressed; we need some smart planning."

Regarding open space and watershed areas Merlo commented, "we've done well protecting land, but we've also removed the taxes."

SRPEDD's mapping shows that nearly 30% of all landmass in Mattapoisett is either wetlands, been purchased for open space, is state protected, or part of the Buzzards Bay Coalition and watershed areas.

In discussing bylaws, Karen Field asked, "if you are going to allow solar energy, are you going to allow wind also?" Neighboring Marion's current scrutiny of solar energy and land use bylaws was noted, along with Mattapoisett's recent approval of the industrial-scale solar farm scheduled for Tinkham Hill Road off North Street. Mathieu questioned, "Do we have several types of permits?"

This spurred the conversation toward the subject of which board has responsibility for special permits with Mathieu commenting that in conversations he has had with other boards, he believed the Planning Board should be the granting authority for most special use permits.

"We need to work on these things," Merlo interjected. "We have a clean slate."

The one agenda item the board heard earlier in the evening regarding a large Maple Tree on Beacon Street was postponed until June 3 to allow for public comment should the tree need to be removed. Beacon Street is a scenic byway.

And one other issue discussed was the necessity to seek legal counsel for action on the paving of Ocean Breeze, which was mandated as part of the development's order of conditions. The required paving has not been completed in spite of a four-year time period having transpired. Merlo said, "the four residents pay taxes and they deserve a paved road." The members approved a motion to seek legal action against the developer, Scott Snow, for the paving and the installation of a streetlight.

Minutes from the previous meeting were approved without correction, and the next meeting is set for June 3.

Officials Eye Full-Day K, Nix Choice

Rochester Memorial School Committee

By Nick Walecka

The Rochester Memorial School Committee met

Thursday evening, and among many issues discussed was the unanimous decision to not go forward with the School Choice program, and also to study a potential switch from a half-day kindergarten to a full-day program.

The School Choice program as discussed by the Committee would have allowed for up to 10 students from outside the district to attend RMS by using funds provided by the former district to pay for the student's tuition.

"There are a lot of variables that come into play," said Superintendent Douglas White. "Where the economy is at, I just don't know what that looks like going forward. I think that staying the way we are is the most efficient way to continue on at this time."

The committee also addressed the potential move to a full-day K program, which most members are leaning toward but won't vote on until June.

"I feel very strongly about the full-day K," White said. "You have to be careful about how many changes you make," referring to potentially switching to full kindergarten and School Choice at the same time.

White added that Marion had also voted against School Choice for their schools, but that it is an option districts will revisit.

Committee officials, meanwhile, seemed excited about the switch to full-day K, which would have a limit of 25 students for the class. There would be seven slots for half-day students, but those students' parents would be responsible for their own transportation.

The Committee discussed two potential plans for the Full Day program: one with tuition, and one without, with the major difference between the two being the cost of bus transportation. Without tuition, there would be no transportation provided. Officials also stated that additional grant money would be made available under a no-tuition plan.

It is not yet clear which option the board will pursue, but further discussions will be held in the near future before a vote.

"I feel like we are really close," said Sharon Hartley of the Committee. "I believe the town leaders would support us on this."

In other news, the Committee unanimously approved a plan to construct a new playground at RMS for students in grades two through six. Donna Forcier and Erin Bednarczyk, who are co-chairs for the Playground Committee, presented a plan alongside Cindy Maak of Rochester, who designed the new playground and who has helped design more than 800 playgrounds total, including many in the area.

According to the Playground Committee, approximately $27,000 was raised in the last three years, but nothing had been done to move forward with the project. They formed at the beginning of this year, and were able to construct a plan for the new equipment, which will cost about $29,000. The PTO will have another fundraiser in the near future to supply the remaining funds.

"We're going to order the equipment tomorrow," Bednarczyk said. "It's nice to see it get done. For three years, the kids played on asphalt."

Car Wash to Support Class of 2015

ORR Update

By Jessica Correia

On Saturday, May 11, the sophomore class (Class of 2015) will be holding a car wash at the Mattapoisett Fire Station. The car wash is a fundraiser for the class. It will take place from 9:00 am to 1:00 pm.

According to Mrs. Morrell and Mr. Rogers, the advisors to the Class of 2015, each sophomore student will receive two tickets in their homerooms that they are encouraged to sell. Each ticket is $5. Students are also encouraged to sell more tickets if possible. Car owners attending the car wash are required to have a ticket, and tickets will be available on the day of the car wash. All are encouraged to attend.

The goal of the car wash is to raise money specifically for the Class of 2015's Junior Semi-Formal and Senior Prom. Class advisors Morrell and Rogers have announced intentions for all future fundraisers for the class treasury to go toward the two events in the upcoming years. The advisors hope to give the class lower ticket fees for the two events than in years past. The lowering of ticket costs has becomes the class's collective goal.

There will be two prizes awarded after the car wash. The first prize goes to the homeroom that collectively sells the most tickets. The prize will be a free breakfast for that homeroom. Another prize will go out to the individual that sells the most tickets. The individual prize has yet to be announced.

Girls' Tennis Streak Snapped

ORR Sports Update

By Michael Kassabian

In Old Rochester Regional school history, there is no team that can match the dominance of the girls' tennis program. Coached by Bob Hohne, the girls have won 9 consecutive SCC championships, and they had not lost a regular season match since 2006. That makes 111 straight victories without a single loss. Unfortunately, all good things must come to an end, and the girls' streak was snapped when they lost 4-1 to Apponequet High School last Wednesday.

A tennis team has seven players. There are three singles players, and two doubles teams. If you win your match, you get one point toward the final score of the match.

Senior all-star Abby Offringa was the only Bulldog to win her match. She easily won over Apponequet's top player, April Locke, going 6-0, 6-1. Number two singles player, sophomore Julia Nojeim, played a hard game, but eventually lost in three hard-fought sets. Senior Casey Garstang, third singles player, won her first set 6-3, but would lose the next two 2-6, 2-6 to give Apponequet the third singles win as well.

The doubles matches were just as hard fought. Freshman Morgan Middleton and partner Jillian Reichert won their first set 6-4, but then lost the next two 1-6, 1-6. Junior Haley Dickerson and senior Kristin Nascimento also played well, but lost in two sets with a 6-7 decision in each of them.

The girls' loss does not signify the end of an era, however. Once loss in 7 seasons is nothing to be ashamed of, and they are still in the running for the SCC title, as they play Apponequet later in the season, this time on their home courts. At that point, the girls will have more experience and hope to defeat the Lakers to attain their 10th consecutive title.

point of view because many of the services that we provide jointly will now be each town's responsibility. It would not be fiscally responsible to pass this article. As a district we have been responsible stewards of our budget, which is an infinitesimal part of the overall budget.

There is a plethora of evidence from both the state and federal governments stating that regional health services are strengthened through shared staff and service agreements. Our Marion Rochester Regional Health District has been cited as a model. Our district performance is consistent with national research demonstrating the value of districts in achieving economic delivery of essential public health services.

We have shared a Health Director since the establishment of the district in 1989. Karen Walega has served in this position. She has worked with both boards of health and is familiar with the towns, the residents, and their problems. Because we essentially work as a team there are many services, supplies, and equipment that we share. This results in a significant savings in both cost and time. Both of the boards and staff work collaboratively and support community endeavors such as the flu clinics, Medical Reserve Corps, and shelter trainings. Additionally, because of the district Rochester residents have access to the syringe and drug disposal programs in Marion. This pooling of resources and expertise enhances the delivery of public health services for all residents.

As a district, the availability of grants is enhanced. The recycling grant was a direct result of regionalization. We are currently applying for a grant for the provision of shingles vaccine for our residents and a grant for shelter equipment.

Many people are unaware of the many facets and responsibilities of the Board of Health - mosquito control, septic inspections, beach testing, restaurant inspections, housing inspections, licensing recreational camps, infectious disease control, monitoring, and follow-up.

It would be irresponsible from both a fiscal and health service point of view to be supplying these services as individual towns when, as a district, we have the ability to collaborate and provide far more comprehensive services.

To the Editor:

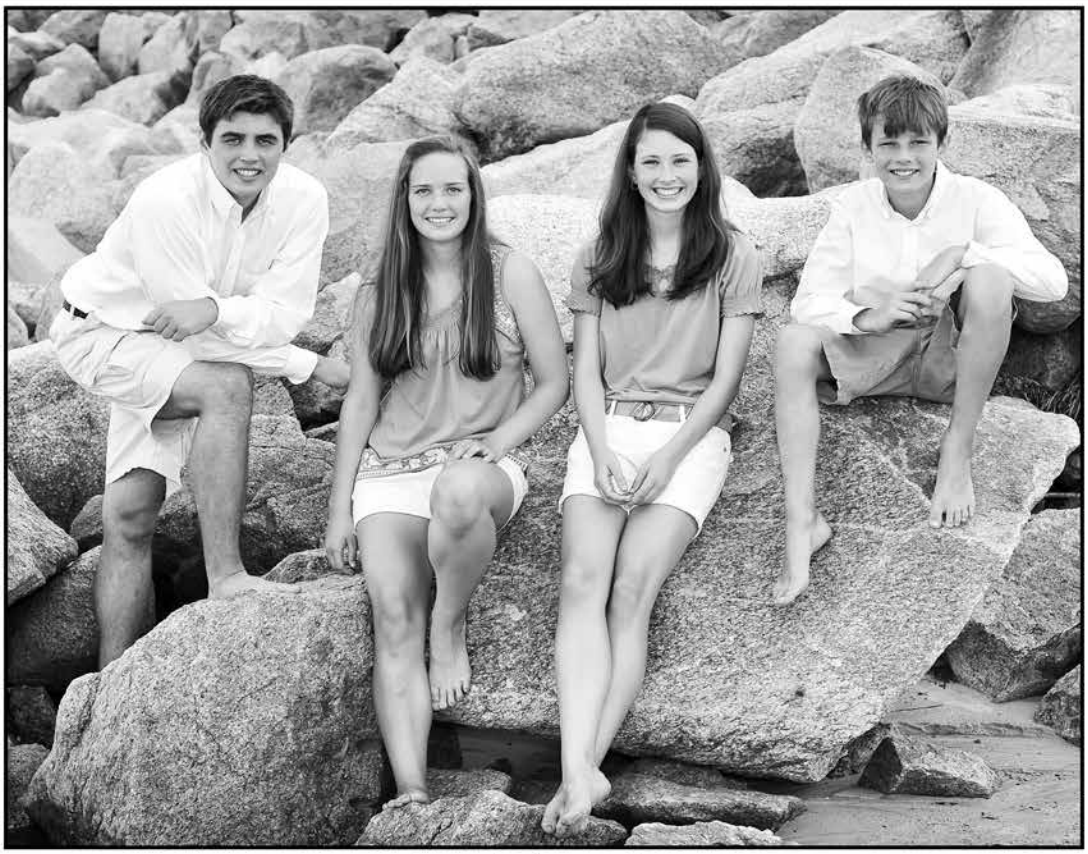

When it comes to drafting a solar bylaw for the town of Marion, there are those who wish to do their part to stop the world's momentum toward dangerous climate change, and there are others who seem to be more interested in burning every available drop of oil and gas until the world is in an irreversible downward spiral of extreme weather conditions, rising sea levels, and frightful living conditions for our children and grandchildren.

Our ability to participate, even if on a small patch of our own land, in curbing the use of the remaining fossil fuels is a very meaningful effort to those of us who do care. And we all should care.

The Energy Management Committee was appointed by the Selectmen to seek ways that the town could both reduce its energy use and save tax dollars. That effort is what spurred us to write Articles 30 and 31 of this year's town meeting warrant.

Article 30 was crafted to permit property owners in Marion to install solar arrays that convert the sun's energy into electrical power for their own use. These panels can be expected to generate power for 20 or 25 years with little or no maintenance and reduce NSTAR bills close to zero. Roof-mounted solar is great if your house has new roof shingles and the proper orientation to the sun.

But for those of us whose roofs are shaded or face the wrong direction, small ground-mounted solar panels can be more efficient. The proposed bylaw would limit the size of these systems so as to produce approximately what is used on the property. A 325-square-foot solar array will power an average house. An array up to a maximum of 600 s.f. is allowed, however, for those who use more power. These small residential systems all require a building permit and are subjected to the Site Plan Review process by the Planning Board, allowing abutters to make their feelings known prior to the issue of a building permit.

The Solar Bylaw also addresses large ground-mounted installations. Since the size of such installations is larger, we felt they should require additional regulation, thus these systems must also pass through the Planning Board's Special Permit process. Further, the bylaw states that "large scale clearing of forested areas for the purpose of constructing solar arrays is prohibited." So the Planning Board is given the responsibility of protecting our woodlands as well as reviewing the details of screening or fencing in the areas where these large projects are proposed. In fact the Special Permit process gives the Planning Board the "power to say no" to these projects if it deems they are bad for our town. But as tax-paying businesses, solar power providers can also provide substantial revenue to the community without contributing noise, pollution, traffic, or the need for more classrooms for children.

OK, but what about the idea of placing a 2.4-acre solar installation on the top of the town's landfill? A year ago, the Town Meeting voted to authorize the Selectmen to lease the landfill "for the purpose of allowing the land to be developed as a photovoltaic field in a manner beneficial to the town." During Town Meeting, the concept of a community solar garden was explained and well supported. It will be possible to deliver power from the landfill to as many as 100 residences and small businesses through remote net metering at a cost below NSTAR's normal rate, allowing townspeople to buy solar power just as if they had been able to install a system on their own property, but by investing for a shorter period at a reduced cost. Ted North faults the concept because the bylaw does not require a Special Permit in the 50 acres of municipal land surrounding the dump. But put yourself in the position of the solar contractor who is asked to submit a proposal to construct a solar garden on the landfill and learns that every member of the Planning Board has voted to oppose the project and that they will serve as the permit-granting authority in the Special Permit process. Why bother! Our bylaw grants the Planning Board a Site Plan Review and calls for the rigorous review of the state Department of Environmental Protection Post-Closure permit process, but we are not willing to give the Planning Board the power to say "no" to this project.

Over the past year our committee has labored for countless hours to bring solar to Marion with bylaws that address all types of installations. We have drafted two bylaws that preserve the individual's right to access solar energy while protecting the character of the town. We have done it in spite of a Planning Board that seems to resist technological progress and ignore planning for our future. Our efforts have been rejected and the town has been put on hold to give the Planning Board time to create their own bylaw that will require all applications for ground-mounted solar systems to pass through their ambiguous, onerous, and expensive Special Permit process. Yes, by now we are more than a little frustrated with our Planning Board, but with your yes vote on Articles 30 and 31, we shall continue to press for sun power in Marion. Please attend Town Meeting on May 13/14 and support these bylaws.

Bill Saltonstall
Marion Energy Management Committee

To the Editor:

In recent weeks, we've seen a flurry of letters in the papers, along with discussion in meetings and public hearings, regarding Marion's future for capturing energy from the sun. Let's recap by circling back to last year's spring Town Meeting. In May 2012, Marion's residents approved two warrant articles promoted by the Energy Management Committee. The first allowed the town to purchase wind-generated electricity from turbines in Plymouth, and soon all the town's facilities and schools (including ORR) will be powered by wind. The second article gave the green light for a community solar garden on the town's capped landfill. The message we heard loud and clear last year from Marion's residents was that they want to move forward, joining the state, nation, and the world in becoming more energy-efficient and kicking our fossil-fuel addiction. This is exactly why the Selectmen created the EMC, and this is exactly the EMC's focus, while also preserving the special character of our town.

Unfortunately, however, our elected Planning Board does not appear to share this vision. While it is the Planning Board's job to develop new zoning bylaws for the town, the Massachusetts law 40A that promotes solar installations "by right" throughout the state has existed since 2008, yet the Planning Board has done nothing to address its impacts on Marion. When the EMC stepped up to assist in developing a bylaw to guide solar projects, we were met with resistance at every turn. Rather than creating a clear, sensible bylaw that provides straightforward guidelines for proposed solar installations, they demanded an ambiguous and onerous Special Permit process, which recent history tells us is cumbersome, inefficient, and expensive (e.g., Dunkin Donuts, Cumberland Farms). Clear guidelines through good bylaws help everyone: the applicants, the abutters, and the town boards.

The Planning Board's opposition to the two proposed solar bylaws is simple. They refuse to support the general Solar Bylaw (Article 30) because there is no special permit requirement for small ground-mounted systems in residential areas. The town's existing general bylaws say you have the right to build – with no Planning Board input whatsoever – a tennis court, a swimming pool, and even a garage on your property. These are all considered "accessory structures," as would be a small solar system, and they only require a simple building permit from the Building Inspector. The proposed bylaw for solar panels requires some additional restrictions to assuage neighbors, including reasonable height and size limits, screening, and a minimum lot size. As long as one complies with the bylaw guidelines, a special permit from the Planning Board is unnecessary and inconsistent with requirements for other accessory structures. If one wishes to deviate from bylaw requirements, then a special permit is required. That's why it's called a "special" permit to deal with special cases. It is not meant to apply to all cases, as the Planning Board desires.

The second bylaw, proposed in Article 31, would create a Municipal Solar Overlay District that includes 50 town-owned acres around the landfill. A special permit would not be required to build a community solar garden on top of the landfill (i.e., the Planning Board would not be able to deny it), and the District would also satisfy the first of five requirements for Marion to become a Green Community, joining 114 other towns that are already saving energy through this program. A great deal of ominous information has appeared in the papers lately about the Massachusetts' Green Communities program, much of which is irrelevant or outright wrong.

Very simply, the GC program is designed to help towns save energy through energy audits of town facilities (audits provided free of charge), encouraging the purchase of more energy-efficient vehicles when the time comes to replace them, and promoting building practices that use energy-efficient materials. The EMC is not pushing the town to become a GC, but rather we are carefully evaluating each criterion to determine whether it makes sense for our town, just as the Selectmen asked us to. Ultimately, this decision would be made by Marion's residents at Town Meeting. It is unclear why the Planning Board is so fearful of taking this first small step toward energy efficiency. It cannot be for lack of oversight for the community solar garden on the landfill, as the project would require a rigorous Mass. Dept. of Environmental Protection post-closure permit that far exceeds any assurance that their special permit could provide. What they would lose is the ability to "just say no," while the town would gain a first step toward becoming a bit greener. Note that both Fairhaven and Carver have built or are building solar projects on their capped landfills – no special permit was required.

The Planning Board members spend countless hours working to keep Marion's character intact and prevent the ugly development that has occurred in so many neighboring towns. They care deeply for our community and have our best interests at heart. In this particular case, however, "change" is not a four-letter word. Marion's residents have clearly said they want to see more of their energy come from the sun. The solar bylaws presented in Articles 30 and 31 provide clear guidelines to make state law 40A work for our town and avoid the situations faced by Mattapoisett, Carver, and other communities who had no bylaw in place to regulate applications for large solar arrays. Our bylaws make sure any solar projects in town protect Marion's character while removing ambiguity and unnecessary oversight in the approval process. Please come to Town Meeting on May 13/14 and support solar energy in Marion. It's time to move forward.

Here are the relevant facts:

1. Massachusetts General Law 40A has been in effect for 5 years. It allows solar installations in a town "by right" and the town cannot unreasonably restrict the installation except for reasons of public health, safety or welfare. During those five years, the Planning Board has taken no initiative to protect the Town of Marion with reasonable bylaws.
2. The EMC, at the Selectmen's direction, has developed proposed bylaws over the last year. In that period the EMC met with Planning Board members in 11 meetings and 2 hearings to discuss the development of the bylaws. This has not been a rush job without Planning Board involvement as he wants you to believe. The Planning Board has been

Movie Review

The Stark Facts

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Iron Man 3*. Starring Robert Downey Jr. and Gwyneth Paltrow. Directed by Shane Black. Running time: 130 minutes. MPAA rating: PG-13.

Can you name a third film in a franchise that was better than the previous two films? You'd probably have to go deep — A Nightmare on Elm Street 3, perhaps? — but Iron Man 3, despite my misgivings as someone who yawned through Tony Stark's first two adventures, turns out to be deft summer entertainment, cheerfully amoral (I'll get to that) and lightly coated with terrific little bits of comedic business. The difference here, it's clear, is director/cowriter Shane Black, whose scripts for Lethal Weapon and The Last Boy Scout still hold up as winking macho fantasies. Black doesn't take much seriously unless it involves a hero trying to rescue or avenge his loved one. Everything else is fair game, all in fun, the clatter and concussion of action tropes as syncopated as the dialogue.

Stark (Robert Downey Jr.) is up against some heavy hitters this time: exploding, supercharged assassins — juiced up with some form of nanotech called Extremis — who do the bidding of a shadowy, preening terrorist known as the Mandarin (Ben Kingsley). The Mandarin, probably the most durable of the rather forgettable rogues' gallery in Marvel's Iron Man comics, is sort of tossed aside in this movie, in a wittily cynical fashion that almost reads as subversion. Black doesn't take mustache-twirling supervillains seriously either. Mostly, the movie is a matter of Stark up against amputee war vets whose exposure to the putatively healing Extremis has made them aggressive and vicious. Someone in a bad mood might find Iron Man 3 unforgivably callous and thoughtless, especially after the events in Boston, where we saw real terrorism, real explosions, real amputees.

But the combination of Shane Black and Robert Downey Jr., which worked a treat in 2005's little-seen but well-loved Kiss Kiss Bang Bang, wants only to put you in a good mood — especially if you were there for the '80s and '90s action bonanzas from which Black emerged. Right down to its holiday setting — every scene is sprinkled with festive (and patriotic) Christmas lights — Iron Man 3 is a slick late-'80s throwback, with a bad guy (Guy Pearce) whose mullet and glib smile recall Val Kilmer's Chris Knight in Real Genius, except this real genius is bent on domination via manipulating the terrorist market. (Kilmer, of course, was also Downey's co-star in Kiss Kiss Bang Bang.) Black expands his boys' club a bit, though — one of the more fearsome Extremis brutes is a woman (Stephanie Szostak), and even the unfortunately named Pepper Potts (Gwyneth Paltrow), Stark's loved one, gets to administer some beatdowns.

If the thought of William Sadler and Miguel Ferrer — two character-actor favorites of the action era this movie fondly references — as President and Vice-President puts a spring in your step, welcome to Iron Man 3. (I wish Black had time to throw in Michael Ironside or Tom Atkins, just for me.) The rapport between Stark and fellow armor-wearer James Rhodes (Don Cheadle) likewise calls back to Riggs and Murtaugh. The action, framed by legendary cinematographer John Toll, is clear and crisp and satisfying, harking back to the days when directors felt it was important for us to see what was happening to whom, and where. (I'd advise skipping the 3D on this one — it works just fine in plain old 2D, and the colors most likely pop better.)

Downey is as blithely smug as he usually is in these hefty franchise events, but with Stark suffering Post-Avengers Stress Disorder, Downey has something new and likable to play: the current reality of gods and monsters has tweaked Stark's head a little — he's no longer the biggest kid on the block, and he's a bit more humble. Technology, too, smacks him down to size, and at the end, after a symbolic fireworks show casting off tech support he no longer needs, we feel that Stark has grown up, left his toys behind. While we wait for the loud climax we have diversions in the form of witty banter between Stark and various admirers (including a fatherless kid who's around just long enough not to wear out his welcome), and Guy Pearce and Ben Kingsley making meals of their sinister dialogue, and Rebecca Hall, looking like an odd amalgam of Liv Tyler and Scarlett Johansson, as a botanist and former Stark one-night stand. The theme of the movie seems to be that the past — whether a woman scorned or a nerd snubbed at a New Year's Eve party — will come back to bite you, and that extends to ghastly experiments on war veterans and destructive technology that can be used against its maker. For all its snark and lighter-than-air pyrotechnics and aesthetic, the movie has a bit more going on under the hood — or helmet — than it'll get credit for.

3. The proposed bylaws are logical, clear, and in consonance with the definition of "accessory structures" in the existing bylaws. They have been crafted to provide an owner the ability to install a solar system and at the same time provide consideration for neighbors; everyone's rights are protected. The bylaws do not put the town at-risk of a solar invasion by speculators any more than the current bylaws do. Actually less so as they provide clear direction to potential installers of what is required, whereas now there is no guidance whatsoever. Saying no is not a viable option; witness the current Town lawsuit and Mattapoisett's recent acceptance of a proposed solar array on residential property.
4. The draft bylaws have been reviewed by Town Counsel and his suggestions were incorporated.

5. Solar panels are benign; they don't move, they don't smell, they don't leak anything, they don't make noise, and existing data indicates that they enhance the value of your home. They are installed using the same electrical safety standards that are required for your home.

6. The Article 31 "as of right zoning" only applies to the proposed Municipal Solar Overlay District, specifically the top of the capped landfill. Remember now that this is on top of the old dump, adjacent to the garbage transfer station and a cell tower, near the town's wastewater treatment plant, a water tower, and an industrial composting operation; all of which are in a residential district. It is not clear what zoning protections the Planning Board considers necessary given the adjacent projects. The benefit of the location is that it is already within a fenced area, it is close to the power lines feeding the waste water treatment plant, no clearing is required, it is not visible to residents, it is not competing with any other proposed use, and any installation will have to be permitted by Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection.

7. MassDEP has permitted 40 renewable energy installations on landfills in Massachusetts. They have strict requirements to protect the landfill cap from damage. In the extremely unlikely event that the cap is damaged; it is a simple matter of uncovering the plastic cap and heat-sealing a patch. The required maintenance plan and environmental insurance will result in the landfill having more frequent inspections and better care than it currently gets.

TriTown Happenings

Children and parents came together Saturday, April 27th to help the Sippican Lands Trust (SLT) and The Trustees of Reservations (TTOR) plant Atlantic White Cedar saplings in an initiative to re-introduce this rare, native species back onto SLT and Town properties.

Are you Boston Strong? Sippican School is! Students in Nicole Radke's fourth-grade classroom organized and ran the school's most successful charity fundraiser in just two days. Upon learning about the tragedy of the Boston Marathon Bombings and reflecting upon the courage and bravery of the first responders, students asked their teacher, "Can we do something to help the people who are hurt?"

In just two days, the students were granted permission by Principal Rivet to raise money for the One Fund Boston, the fundraiser designed by Governor Deval Patrick and Boston Mayor Tom Menino, to assist those physically and emotionally affected by the events on April 15.

The "Radkids" went to work immediately. Recesses were spent painting posters and decorating the hallways of Sippican School. Students volunteered to read both morning and afternoon announcements to bring awareness to a Boston Strong Spirit Day on April 26. The school community was encouraged to dress in the traditional colors of the BAA (Boston Athletic Association) and/or wear sports gear depicting a Boston sports team to show unity, pride, and spirit.

On April 26, the Radkids' efforts were rewarded. Students rushed into the building sporting their favorite team's T-shirts, donning blue and yellow ribbons in their hair, and even wearing face paint with the motto "Boston Strong" on their cheeks. Teachers could also be spotted wearing blue and yellow outfits and wearing Boston Bruin jerseys. In the end, the students counted spare change and collected $1,057 from the school community. Most importantly, they learned the valuable lesson that we can come together to stand as one and help those in need.

To the Editor:

I would like to extend my thanks to Old Hammondtown School Science Teacher Laura Mirabito and Old Hammondtown School principal Matt D'Andrea for working with us to make the sixth-grade field trip to Nasketucket State Park a success. Additionally, I would to thank the Mattapoisett Land Trust for funding the buses and MLT president Gary Johnson in particular for helping to shepherd kids from one location to the next. Finally, I'd like to thank consultants Phil Benjamin and Brian Butler for agreeing to share their considerable expertise with three classes of Old Hammondtown School science students.

Phil Benjamin, a well-known local forester, gave the students a tour of the upland forest types found at the park, and discussed some of the threats they face including pathogens and invasive insects. Brian Butler of Oxbow Associates introduced the students to our rocky intertidal shoreline and talked about problems with some invasive species of crabs and seaweeds. I was able to introduce the students to a vernal pool and encouraged them to look more closely at this important ecosystem. The kids pulled up salamander larvae, tadpoles, insects, several green frogs, and we noticed a couple of small snakes that had come to the pool to grab an amphibian snack.

This trip was one part of a two-part program with the sixth-grade science classes at Old Hammondtown School. The first half was conducted earlier this spring in Ms. Mirabito's classroom during which Gary Johnson and myself presented a brief introduction to what we would be seeing in the field.

During the field trip the students were excited and engaged with the subject matter, and one boy exclaimed "now this is how to learn science!" We were lucky enough to finally have a beautiful sunny day for the event, and I know the students will remember their trip for a long time to come. These trips had been an annual event up until a few years ago, and I for one am very excited to see them be resurrected.

and nephews. The cousins he grew up with held a special place in his heart. Neil treasured his family, and was always there to share in holiday celebrations and lend a hand to anyone who needed him.

Neil is loved deeply by his friends and family, who will keep his memory alive each day.

A stalwart defender of truth, Neil lived in New York, and in Massachusetts. He was a career journalist for several publications, The Standard Times of New Bedford for seventeen years, where he was known for accurate reporting, pithy writing, and impeccable ethics. His experience in the information security field, most recently working for Corero Network Security in Hudson, MA, made him one of the most well-respected technology journalists in the nation. He and his wife, also a career journalist, inspired their son to enter a life as a reporter; he now works as an arts journalist in Southern Vermont.

Neil loved music and made it part of his daily life, whether Wagner, Beethoven or Joplin, his relationship to music never waned and was something he passed onto his children. Nighttime renditions of "Too-Ra-Loo-Ra-Loo-Ral," inspired his daughter's own love affair with singing. Listening to her belt out a show tune or chill a room with a haunting rendition of Leonard Cohen's "Hallelujah," was one of Neil's favorite pastimes. Tess is entering her sophomore year at the Hart School of Music for a degree in performing arts management.

Neil was an avid baseball fan from the age of 9. His hometown Brooklyn Dodgers leaving for LA as he began his life-long love of the sport left him rooting for the New York Yankees. A passionate fan, Neil watched as many games as possible and memorized statistics during times both good and bad. Neil and Gwendolyn were best friends, who respected each other, encouraged each other's work and took great pleasure in simply being together. At their wedding, on June 29, 1986, they vowed to be together forever, saying "This is my beloved and this is my friend."

He also loved cats, providing a home for several over the decades, most recently Espion and Abigail, and offering Gwendolyn a kitten the day they met.

His Funeral Service was held on Wednesday in Temple Beth El 385, High Street, Fall River, MA. Relatives and friends were invited to attend, burial followed in Temple Beth El Cemetery in Fall River, MA. Memorial Observance will be held on Thursday from 4-7pm and Friday from 1-4pm at the family home: 7 Barlow Lane, Mattapoisett, MA.

Memorial donations in his memory may be made to benefit his children's future education expenses, in c/o Gwendolyn J. Roiter, 7 Barlow Lane, Mattapoisett, MA 02739.

Marion's Parlow Mill Farm, an organic farm, for over 25 years), I urge Town Meeting voters to vote against article 30, the Solar Bylaw.

The proposal deals with three areas: commercial installations, commercial installations in residential zones, and home installations. I have no problem with Nos. 1 and 2. It is No. 3 that is the deal breaker.

No. 3, the home installation segment, will make it harder, much harder, for folks to have solar installations on their own properties. I feel we are better off with the state rules that are in place now, which encourage solar for homeowners.

And please don't believe the nonsense about aesthetics. Marion is a town where the big blue tarp boat in the driveway is a status symbol! Compared to that, a little solar installation is nothing!

To the Editor:

I am delighted to see Articles 30 and 31 in our Town Warrant, which establish reasonable and well-stated bylaws for solar installations in Marion. It is essential that we find ways to curb the use of fossil fuel energy sources. The use of these fuels is precipitating a calamity in climate change and exhausting our vital resources of petroleum. Petroleum is a treasure. It is extremely valuable. To give you a gauge for this statement, if a healthy individual were to peddle a bicycle type electrical generator for 40 man-hours per week for 8 weeks, he would produce the equivalent energy of a gallon of petroleum. At minimum wage, this would be equivalent to a value of $2,194.

My home has a good orientation to the sun, but due to tree shading is not satisfactory for a solar photoelectric array. I also have a concern about mounting solar panels on a shingle roof. The installation might cause leaks. Article 31 solves this problem. Hopefully, I can contract for solar energy atop of the town dump, which currently is wasteland. This would generate revenue for the town and place many solar panels in one location for easy service. This sounds like a win-win situation to me.

I am so pleased that we have a group in Marion that has been appointed by the Selectmen to move us ahead with renewable energy in the town. The Energy Management Committee is made up of experienced individuals who have done a thorough and enlightened job to produce bylaws at essentially no cost to the town. These bylaws have tried to provide the town residents with a document to follow with certainty so we can move forward without continuous hassling with town committees on our future solar installations. I am a great believer in generating a bylaw which documents the subject matter in sufficient detail that there is no need for future intervention by the Town if the resident follows the bylaw. This makes our lives much easier, free of uncertainty, and saves us time by not having to attend endless approval meetings.

Frank McNamee gave a talk on May 1 to the Marion Council on Aging entitled, "What's in Your Attic?" at the Marion Police Station. He discussed many of the important objects that he discovered in attics of local homes and how much they were worth. He also appraised objects brought in by Council on Aging members as well as discussing the values of objects he brought in from his antiques shop. The speech was taped by the local cable station, ORCTV, channel 9 for Comcast, channel 36 for Verizon subscribers.

I am surprised to see such instant rejection of these articles by the Marion Planning Board. This whole matter should have been resolved months ago. If the Board was run in a businesslike way, they would have sat down with the Energy Management committee, gone over the proposed articles item by item, and refined the document to the satisfaction of all concerned. Instead, there was immediate rejection. I have been wondering what was the matter. I am led to believe that is a case of NIH: Not Invented Here. If this is the case, we are being subjected to a lot of wasted time and frustration. If we approve the articles, nothing is lost. The articles can be modified as we gain more experience with them, as we have done with many other bylaws in the past.

There is probably another underlying element in the rejection of the articles. There are members on the Planning Board who do not think that renewable energy is a viable alternative for curbing our use of fossil fuels. I can only wince to think of trying to request permission for a solar installation to non-believers. This would be a disaster for those who believe that by our actions today, we can leave this planet a better place for future generations.

Please support articles 30 and 31. Your support will certainly be a truly positive step for Marion as a future-minded community. Let's have peace and good will in the Town Hall in the future.

Eighteen ORR students and one Tabor student, along with their fathers, spent their April vacation working at an orphanage on the island of Trinidad. The group provided labor, materials, and good spirits to help paint the sleeping areas for the 35 children who live at the Christ Child Convalescence Home. "It was a very eye-opening experience," said Ben Mattson, who went with his father, Wayne. "The kids were very excited to have us visit. They were so grateful and we could see what a big deal our work was to them. It was amazing to see how much we accomplished in such a short time." Photos by Jane Kassabian misinformation that appeared in The Wanderer about the proposed change in the town's tax billing procedure ("Officials Sign Off on Articles," May 2). That article states, "The Board of Assessors supports a change," which misleadingly implies that the Assessors support Article 9 as it has been written to be presented to Town Meeting. Furthermore, the billing and payment due dates that appear in the article for the proposed "semi-annual preliminary tax billing" are incorrect. The Board of Assessors has discussed with other officials in recent years the option of improving the Town's tax billing procedure without interest expressed by other officials. Now that other officials express an interest in changing when the Town sends its tax bills, however, the procedure that will least improve the Town's revenue management is being imposed. The Assessors support changing to quarterly tax billing, but strongly oppose the proposed change to "semi-annual preliminary tax billing" that is called for in Article 9 in the warrant for the May 20Annual Town Meeting.

Quarterly tax billing serves both the town's property owners and town's government better than the proposed "semi-annual preliminary tax billing." Quarterly tax bills enable tax payers to make payments in more manageable, smaller quarterly amounts according to a predictable schedule of due dates. Consequently, it also makes the town government's cash flow more reliable and routine. Over 250 of Massachusetts' 351 towns and cities now utilize quarterly tax billing, but only five towns use the billing method proposed by Article 9, according to the Dept. of Revenue. To

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You've set a fast pace for yourself. But as you approach your goal, you might want to slow down a bit in order to take time to reassess your situation and make changes while you can.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Patience continues to be a virtue for the Divine Bovine. So as eager as you might be to get things moving, remember that time is on your side. Make good use of it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) There's a wee bit of uncertainty in the early part of the week. But things clear up as more facts come to light. Spend quality time this weekend with family and friends.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An old friend's return could open new possibilities for both of you. But don't let yourself be rushed into anything. There could be some factors you haven't yet explored.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This week offers a challenge you're raring to take on. And while eager to get started, do so slowly so that you can focus those sharp Cat's Eyes on every detail.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Put your skepticism aside and listen to advice from colleagues who've been where you are now. What they say could be helpful as you get closer to a decision.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A family matter might again require your reassuring touch. Handle it, as always, with kindness and fairness, even if some of your kin prove to be especially difficult.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your ability to tackle even the most intricate details of a project is likely to impress some very important people. A relative shares news later this week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The Archer's aim might be focused on the big picture this week, but don't overlook checking for those details you might have missed.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might feel awkward asking for assistance, but who would refuse the charming Goat's request? Do it, then go ahead and enjoy a musical weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Pour some cold water on that simmering misunderstanding before it boils over. The sooner things settle, the sooner you can move ahead with your plans.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You're in a highly productive period, which you feel can go on forever. But you could be courting exhaustion. Take time out to relax and restore your energies.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can combine a sense of adventure with a penchant for practicality. Have you considered a travel-related field?

illustrate the disadvantages of the "semi-annual preliminary tax billing" procedure, several towns ultimately changed to quarterly billing after trying the "semi-annual preliminary tax billing" procedure only to learn that is did not produce the routine cash flow that was expected. Importantly, banks and mortgage companies are more familiar with quarterly tax payments and routinely process tax escrow account payments accordingly.

A tax billing change will mean "more work," whether for the tax collector or the assessors. But the proposed "semi-annual preliminary tax billing" will have the added and seriously detrimental effect of forcing systematically and annually onto the Board of Assessors the processing of the previous fiscal year's abatement appeals in the same time frame that the assessors are occupied with preparing valuations for the next fiscal year. This is an untenable overlapping of complex processes. There simply are not enough man-hours available to do both at the same time and to do both well. Moving to the quarterly tax billing procedure will not have this undesirable effect on the assessment calendar, however.

The assessors have strongly urged the Selectmen, tax collector and town administrator to recognize the facts of the change in billing procedure and to make the necessary resources available to the tax collector to manage the change. Despite the combined expertise of over 110 years of experience in assessing and tax administration, facts presented by the assessors to other officials appear to be ignored. Quarterly tax billing is the procedure that objectively and factually is in the taxpayers' and town government's best interest. The Board of Assessors urges fellow Rochester taxpayers to vote, "no" on Article 9 at Town Meeting. That way, taxpayers and town government can better prepare and manage the subsequent change to quarterly tax billing.

Plumb Library News

Local author Ed Lodi will give a talk about his latest book The Women of King Philip's War on May 9 at 6:30 pm at the Plumb Library, 17 Constitution Way, Rochester. Though often overlooked by historians, women played major roles in the war. Included are three squaw-sachems: Awashongs, Weetamoo, and Quaiapen, who rose up with Philip against the settlers. Also included is the fascinating tale of Mary Rowlandson, the Englishwoman taken captive in a raid against the village of Lancaster, whose extraordinary narrative of her captivity became America's first bestselling book. There are other women in the book whose names have been lost to history, but whose exploits have become the stuff of legends. Lodi rounds out his talk with accounts of what daily life was for women in the settlements; the "stealth and stratagems" used by Indian women acting as spies; and the restrictive laws and how some Englishwomen defied them. There will be a question and answer period. Copies of the book will be sold and can be signed by the author. The talk is

On May 23 at 6:30 pm, financial advisor Bill Geasey will be giving a talk on "Plan, Save, and Pay for College ... without Going Crazy or Broke!" This program is suitable for parents of children ages 4-14. Mr. Geasey will cover: How to make a college game plan now; the key to college affordability is within your child; how will you avoid the highly counterproductive effect of college debt; what is financial aid, and will it work for you? This workshop is for you if you have young kids and/or early teenagers; you take the need for higher education seriously; you are concerned about future costs and possible debt; plan to contribute to the cost of your child's higher education; hope your child gets the very best education, but want to know how. Please make a point of attending this informative and timely workshop. Call the library at 508-763-8600 for more information or to register.

The Mad Scientists of "Mad Science" will amaze the children as they "dig" into the layers of the Earth to see its make-up. They will also investigate how scientists evaluate what they find. The presentation really pops when they see what happens when what's inside the Earth tries to get out. This presentation rocks! This program will take place on May 31 at 4:30 pm at the Rochester Congregational Church, 11 Constitution Way, and is suitable for children ages 5 and up. This program is funded by the Friends of Plumb Library.

Café Parlez' selection for May is The Age of Miracles, by Karen Thompson Walker. On a seemingly ordinary Saturday, Julia and her family awake to discover, along with the rest of the world, that the earth's rotation has started to slow. Days and nights grown longer, gravity is affected, and the environment is beginning to suffer. As she struggles to navigate this shifting landscape, Julia is also coping with the ordinary stresses of everyday life. As she adjusts to the new normal, the slowing inexorably continues. This compelling debut novel will have the reader thinking about how they would cope in this situation. We will be discussing this book on May 30 at 6:30 pm. Books are available at the desk, or bring your own copy.

Just the Facts, the nonfiction book discussion group, will be reading Lost in Shangri-La: A True Story of Survival, Adventure, and the Most Incredible Rescue Mission of World War II, by Michael Zuckoff. In 1945, 24 American servicemen and women boarded a plane to see "Shangri-La", a beautiful valley deep within Dutch New Guinea. But when the plane crashed, only three pulled through to fight for survival. Drawn from interviews, Army documents, photos, diaries, and original film footage, this is the first time this true-life adventure has been told. We will be discussing this book on May 16 at 6:30 pm. Copies are available at the desk.

Celebrating Judie Kleven

On May 31, the Elizabeth Taber Library will celebrate the career of Head Librarian Judie Kleven. Please come and reminisce with Judie and her staff over the books and stories you shared over nearly three decades at her goodbye party and library open house. Refreshments will be served between 3:00 and 4:00 pm. More information to come!

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark

In the May 2, 2013 issue the Aardvark was on page 62!
